
From the heights of Mount Royal you can look over Montreal . . . and beyond to the Green Mountains! A great modern city that has not forgotten its colorful past . . . where French and English tongues are heard side by side . . . and a friendly Canadian welcome is written on every face.

St. Joseph's Oratory, the famous Shrine of Brother André, in Montreal

High above the St. Lawrence . . . Quebec, a city of magnificent panoramas and fascinating contrasts! Great ocean ships sail from here.

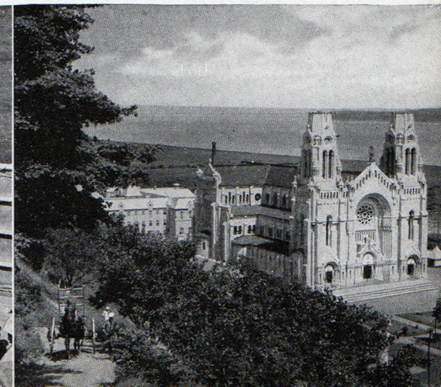
St. Louis Gate in the old city wall of historic Quebec—America's only walled city! One of the great strongholds of early times.

Travel the whole route or any part of it . . . on a cruise, a conducted tour, or "on your own" . . . and you'll be repaid with more then a passing glimpse into the legend and romance of French Canada, as well as a panorama of its scenic miracles!

For this is the country of Wolfe and Montcalm! . . . whose ghosts walk nightly on the Plains of Abraham. The country of the Sieur de Richelieu and his roistering, sword-bearing seigneurs. The country of Rogers' Rangers, of Cartier, of Frontenac, of La Salle, of Champlain. A country rich with the good red blood of our forefathers, a wonder-region bordering the world's most spectacular inland water route!

But let's begin at the beginning. After a look at thundering Niagara Falls, you go by bus to board a C.S.L. steamer at Queenston—and you're "across the line" in the friendliest of foreign countries! First stop, Toronto! . . . See it thoroughly then board another C.S.L. steamer and next morning, the Thousand Islands —fifty miles of them! . . . pass in review.

Montmorency Falls—higher than Niagara! . . . in a wild setting a short ride out from Quebec. One of the sights of Canada!

The joy of sun and salt air with a tang of balsam as you cruise down the widening St. Lawrence—in the best of company!


Ste. Anne de Beaupré, near Quebec . . . the "Lourdes" of America, one of the world's most far-famed shrines!
